Stella is a Brazilian illustrator who showcases her passion for pop culture through her art. From an early age, Stella always demonstrated an interest in creating and painting in art class or at home. Her work mostly focuses on portrait and lighting studies, as she is passionate about learning the human features that make us so unique and different from each other. A big fan of films and books, Stella believes these other forms of art help her creative process. Since moving to Canada, she's a person without fear of change and challenges that can help her improve as an artist.

Originally from Sherbrooke, Laurence is an illustrator whose passion for art pushed her to establish herself in Montreal at the age of 17. Laurence mostly works with Photoshop and Procreate to create her pieces but from time to time she will exchange her tablet for gouache and collage material. From a young age, she started picturing on pieces of paper the characters and the worlds that she would read about in books. When she is not drawing, you can find Laurence under a pile of blankets reading her newest book.
